First Annual Majors and Career Day!

This past spring current business students had the opportunity to learn about their major, careers in their major, visit with alums of their major and learn about Graduate School. This will be an annual spring event in the Collins College of Business. Plan to attend this event in spring 2011!

Business Career Development Tip

You may look good on paper or in your suit, but if you're looking to nail your big interview, looks aren't everything. How you sound is often more important. Bottom Line: You don't have to study elocution to speak well. Simply slow down, take time to pronounce all the syllables and leave slang at home.
