HELPFUL FACTS

Direct Subsidized Stafford Loans -- Effective July 2012 this loan is only available to undergraduate students.
The current interest rate for a Direct Subsidized Stafford loan is 6.8%. The government will deduct an origination fee of 1% from each Direct Stafford loan disbursement. The government pays the interest on this loan while you attend school at least half-time. Once you graduate or drop below half-time status, you have a six month grace period before you begin repayment on your Stafford loan. Students borrowing a Direct Subsidized Stafford loan between 7/1/12 and 7/1/14 (a two year period) should be aware that for this two year period the interest on these loans, though in all prior years was paid by the U.S. Department of Education, will not be paid during the six month grace period provided to students when they are no longer enrolled on at least a half time basis. Like the Direct Unsubsidized Stafford loan, the interest will accrue during grace periods. During deferment periods, the interest on the Direct Subsidized Stafford loan will still be paid by the U.S. Department of Education.

Direct Unsubsidized Stafford: The current interest rate for a Direct Unsubsidized Stafford loan is 6.8%. The government will deduct an origination fee of 1% from each Direct Stafford loan disbursement. The government does not pay your interest on this loan while you are in school. Interest begins accruing at the time the loan disburses. You may defer the interest payment or you may pay the accrued interest quarterly. Select the option you prefer when you complete the Direct Stafford eMPN with the U.S. Department of Education.

Direct Stafford loans are made in two equal disbursements for a two-semester loan. At least one-half of the loan period must elapse before the second disbursement can be released. Direct Stafford loans credit your student account no earlier than the first day of class upon the completion of an eMPN and entrance counseling. A disbursement funds letter will be mailed to your local address when funds are credited. You have the right to cancel all or any portion of the loan within 14 days of the loan crediting your account.

Repayment begins six months after you drop below half-time enrollment. Please visit studentloans.gov for repayment plans.
